In their absence, or when it is necessary to replace other members, people will be chosen successively in decreasing order of number of votes. Article 25

Positions on the Board of Directors are not remunerated. Members of the Board of Directors shall be elected by Members with voting rights and approved by the General Assembly.

The election process shall take place as described below. Members who meet the requirements indicated in SECTION II are eligible to stand for election to the Board of Directors, with no limit on the number per hospital. Article 26

Members of the Board of Directors must avoid situations of conflict of interests between them, people with whom they are linked and the Association; if they are unavoidable, the members may not take part in decision-making or adopting of resolutions on matters in which there are conflicts of interests with the Association. Similarly, when conflicts of interests are unavoidable, the members will notify the Board of Directors of any situation where there is a conflict of interests, direct or indirect, potential or real, including when personal interest derives from links to third parties outside the Association, concerning:

- a) Individuals, the spouse or others with whom they are especially linked through affectiveness, immediate relatives and, in a collateral line, up to the third level of consanguinity or similar; and
- b) Legal entities in which management roles are conducted or in which they constitute, directly or through an intermediary, a management unit, under trade legislation. Also, when the aforementioned family members are directors or representatives of a legal entity or their controlling partners or of entities which form with them a decision-making unit, under trade legislation. In the case of non-profit-making legal entities, said trade legislation will be applied analogously so that the provisions of this clause may take effect.

The duty to communicate any conflict of interest arises when the member of the Board of Directors appointed has accepted the role.

In their own name or that of people linked to them, members of the Board of Directors may not take advantage of an Association business opportunity, this understood to mean any chance of going ahead with registration or acquisition of a patent, an investment or a commercial operation which has arisen, or which has been found to be connected to the exercise of the role by the Board member or use of the Association's media or information.

Members of the Board of Directors and people who are especially linked to them in accordance with the provisions of the first paragraph of this Article may not, without the Board's prior authorisation, (i) register, acquire, sell, transfer or conduct any other business, directly or indirectly, concerning patents, intellectual property rights, trade secrets or licences covering the above rights, which derive from or are related to any project in which the Association has participated; any rights which they are entitled to acquire preferentially (attempt and retraction) (ii) sign with the Association any sale contracts or leasing agreements concerning property of extraordinary value, loans of money, or provision of paid services or supply of products or generally, (iii) any other type of legal business at cost. Contracting, direct or indirect, of people who have links with the Association, including people with work- and/or trade-related ties, for pursuit of any economic activity, including research and teaching, will not require the Board of Directors' permission. Instead, only established is the duty to communicate said contracting to the Board of Directors a month in advance, in cases where participation in the research and/or teaching activity takes place with exclusive dedication or, if part-time or occasional, it is incompatible with meeting the work- or trade-related obligations contracted by SOLTI.

If the Board of Directors does not authorise the business, operations or actions described in the previous paragraph and the member of the Board of Directors does not withdraw its intentions, and therefore pursues them to the end, the role they held in the Association will be terminated automatically.

Loyalty of members of the Board of Directors towards the Association must lead them to tell the Board of Directors when they learn of any abuse or breach on their own part or that of other members of the Board, especially if management of relevant or sensitive information is concerned.

Article 27

Membership of the Board of Directors is not transferable and will be lost in any of the following circumstances:

- f) Upon expiry of the mandate.

Article 28

The Board of Directors shall meet at least twice a year. Meetings shall be called by the Chair. It will also meet, for an extraordinary meeting, if the third party requests this of its members or the Chair decides thus on their own initiative.

Board of Directors' summonses will be issued in writing or using telematic media, giving the place, date and time of the meeting, as well as the agenda, clearly stating the matters to be discussed. In an emergency, it may discuss matters which are not in the summons. There must be at least 5 days between the summons and the scheduled date of the Assembly and, likewise, a date and time may be stated for the Assembly to meet a second time, which may be no sooner than half an hour later than the previous one. However, meetings may be held without a prior summons or called at unusual times if all members of the body are present or represented at it and they unanimously agree to it being called and its agenda.

If resolutions are adopted without a meeting, summonses will be sent in the form and within the timeframe indicated earlier, providing necessary information for voting or making it available to members of the Board of Directors at the registered office and stating the deadline for votes cast to be received.

For the meeting to be duly constituted, physically or telematically, at least half plus one of its components must attend; notwithstanding the possibility of adopting resolutions without a meeting, in which case, casting by at least half plus one of the components will be required. Resolutions are validated by consensus and, where necessary, by simple majority vote of the Board of Directors, with the Chair having the casting vote in the event of a tie. Resolutions take effect as soon as they are adopted, even if they have not been entered into the corresponding minutes and these have been approved.

The Board of Directors may also meet by telephone multiconferencing, video conferencing or using any other analogous system which allows communication in real time and therefore, the act unit, so that one or more, or even all, of the members may attend the meeting telematically. The circumstances in which it is held and the chance to use said telematic media will be indicated in the summons to the meeting, which it is understood will be held at the Association's registered office. The Secretary must acknowledge the identity of attendees and state thus in the minutes, which it will immediately send to all attendees' e-mail addresses.

Adoption of resolutions without a meeting is permitted; to this end, casting votes by mail, telematic communication or any other means is permitted, whenever rights to information and voting are guaranteed, acknowledging receipt of the vote and guaranteeing its authenticity. It is understood that the resolution will be adopted on the site of the registered office of the legal entity and on the date the last of the votes duly cast is received. Once the matter to be ruled on has been notified previously to attendees using a suitable means, without any need for discussions, its members will cast their votes using any of the aforementioned methods.

At all meetings, the Secretary will produce minutes with an extract from the discussions, the text of the resolutions adopted, the numerical outcome of votes and the list of attendees. The minutes will be kept in a Minutes Book intended for the purpose which will be signed by the Secretary and the Vice-Chair with the Chair's approval. The minutes will be approved at the same or the next meeting; however, with the Chair's approval, the Secretary may issue certificates for specific resolutions which have been adopted, notwithstanding approval of the minutes later. In certificates of resolutions adopted, issued before the minutes were approved, such a circumstance will be expressly acknowledged.
